German High Command Communique Admits That A Group of 20 Tanks with Tank-Borne Infantry Has "Succeeded in Pushing Through to Area of Canisy"
—Good Gains Are Made.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS,
Allied Expeditionary Force, July 27
(INS)—American tank forces, pioneering assaults to crush the Nazis in western Normandy, swept forward more than two miles below liberated St. Gilles today to occupy the strategic rail town of Canisy and fan out to the south.
Another tank assault column of armor and infantry which smashed into Marigny, west of St. Gilles, continued to push forward.

(A German high command communique admitted that a group of 20 tanks with tank-borne infantry had "succeeded in pushing through to the area of Canisy." The twin offensives, according to a Renter dispatch threatens the entire German front at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula. The push into Canisy and beyond was described as a further serious break-through of the German lines.)

Headquarters announced that the Americans had made "good gains"
and confirmed the tank breakthrough of German lines on the two sectors southwest of St. Lo.
The advance is continuing, a communique said.

No Basket Cases In United States or Britain

WASHINGTON, July 27 — That some U. S. soldiers have lost both arms and both legs was denied yesterday by the Army Surgeon General's office, which said that there was not one case of multiple amputation
in either American or British hospitals.

It branded the report to the contrary as "loose talk" and revealed that through March 31 only 58 soldiers had lost two limbs. Army officials added that all such cases, before they are discharged, are provided with artificial limbs and taught how to use them.

WATCHED BATTLE FROM UNIT AID STATION

Sgt. of Marines Tells How Casualties Are Handled
On Saipan

A SIX-DAY BATTLE

By Sergeant Maynard Stitt
of Glen Cove, N. Y., a Marine Corps Combat Correspondent, formerly of the Birmingham Bureau, United Press.

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands—(Delayed)—Perhaps the most heartbreaking place to "watch" the six-day battle for "Devil's Garden"—a mile-wide pocket of almost impassable terrain in the heart of Saipan—was our unit aid station.

Manned by three doctors of the Navy Medical Corps, and a dozen enlisted hospital corpsmen, it was through this aid station that the casualties first trickled, then poured, then fell off to a trickle
again as we took the high ground
on the north edge of "Devil's Garden" after bitter fighting.

Treated by corpsmen with the front line units, and by doctors working just behind the lines, the casualties came to this aid station
for further treatment or for evacuation to hospitals.

This aid station operates under the direction of Commander Glenn G. English, 46, of Los Angeles.

Located in a group of abandoned
Jap shacks on the side of a slope overlooking the west coast of Saipan, the aid station operates as many as 70 beds, which are stretchers placed in rows in the shacks to protect patients from the sun and rain.

The cubical, brown, box-like little jeep ambulances, often carrying more than their maximum loads of two stretcher patients and two
"sitters," wind down the tortuous trails from the front, and come bumping and lurching up to the aid station.

As the drivers turn and back in toward the shacks, the cry of "corpsman" brings half a dozen hurrying enlisted men and one or more of the doctors to tenderly little the tagged Marines with their battle-dressed wounds from the ambulance for a quick, thorough inspection.

Even while these examinations
are being made, the ambulance drivers obtain supplies needed at the front and scurry away. As they return to the front they meet other units loaded with wounded.

At the aid station, the treatment
for each wounded Marine is set out.
One Marine will be carried into a huge mosquito-netted enclosure, a sealed box of plasma and distilled water ripped open, a vein bared, washed, and the life-restoring plasma starts to flow into the vein.

Another will be carried to one of the shacks to have his wounds redressed and to rest before being evacuated to a hospital. Another serious case demanding operation, is rushed to the rear hospital in another of the little brown ambulances. Still another is made comfortable until his wound is healed
and he can return to the lines.

The Navy doctors working with Commander English includes Lieutenant Delmar V. Hughes, 33, of New Rochelle, N. Y.

"This is the toughest of the bunch," one doctor said of the Saipan campaign, "We do little operative work here," he explained.
"Stopping hemorrhages sometimes becomes almost an operation. Main-

Where Are Those Flags?

(By "The Stroller")
When the present war first started, there was a liberal display of flags along the streets of Bristol. They were displayed from private residences and business places alike.

But not now.
What is the matter?
The flags have disappeared
and some of those which are displayed show that they have been exposed to the elements.

A flag and staff does not cost a fortune, and in accordance with the present day value of money, the cost is not worth mentioning.

Let us have a more liberal display of flags along our streets and from our places of business.

THREE BRANCHES ON ONE TREE

(Doylestown Intelligencer, July 27)

The concept of rule by law instead of rule by man has done more to make government acceptable to the governed than perhaps any other idea in the evolution of mankind.

The fight to compel rulers to set their laws down in black and white went on for centuries. Some of the most important victories of freedom-seeking people resulted.
For example, the Magna Carta, cornerstone of personal liberty, really involved little more than putting on paper, with the king's name signed to it, of a list of rights and duties already fairly well understood by the British people.

But success in this movement merely started a second struggle, for the right to make the laws. Rulers were not in the position of Moses, who could find his ten commandments already inscribed on stone on a mountaintop —someone had to decide what would be in the laws and what words would be used to express the thought.

The successful struggle of masses of citizens, through their legislatures, to get and to keep the right to make the laws and to say how much taxes should be raised to carry them out, forms another history of revolutions; in England and France, for example, and of course in our own United States.

Once the laws were written and protected against sudden or capricious alteration, there still remained the task of deciding exactly what they meant. Courts, which had come into being originally as a convenient way by which rulers could get someone else to listen to tales of woe, thereupon found a logical and definite function. With written law before them, the judiciary could apply the law to the appeals and protests and when necessary order amends to be made. Under the theory of free government, any citizen who believes that the law affects him unfairly, or that another citizen or public official is unreasonable in applying the law to him, can apply to a court where an impartial judge will hear both sides of the matter and decide on the real meaning of the law.

Government falls into three functions. One is to make the laws, another to decide what they mean, and a third to carry them out. The first is the legislative, the second is the judicial and the third is the executive.

As a generality it is true that the more completely these are separated, the better the private citizen is protected against tyranny and oppression.

The first resolution passed by the Constitutional Convention when it met in Philadelphia in 1787 called for the separation of these powers. The first step of every dictator always is to try to gain control of them in his own person.

Sometimes the division is inconvenient to the government. It was not intended to suit ambitious public officials, but somewhat the opposite, to protect the rights of the people. Attempts by any chief executive to seize either legislative or judicial control is a disturbing extension of what was intentionally made a limited authority.
It is destructive of the vital pattern of free government.

MANY STUDENTS ARE ENTERING FACTORIES

ports Increase of 900%
Since 1931

PARTLY DUE TO WAR

A 900% increase in the number of high school graduates of Bucks County who have entered factory revealed in a report just issued by County Superintendent of Public Schools, Charles H. Boghm. "This amazing increase is only partially due to the war because the graduates of 1939 recorded an increase of 345% over the class of 1931. Of the 767 high school graduates of Bucks County in 1939, 117 entered factory

RICHARD STEEDMAN KILLED IN A CRASH

Resident of Langhorne R. D. in Car Crashing Into Motor Truck

VEHICLE IS WRECKED

A Langhorne R. D. resident was fatally hurt in a head-on collision
of a truck and passenger car
shortly before last midnight.

The dead:
Richard Steedman, of Birch avenue, Langhorne R. D. 1.

Steedman died shortly after admittance to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., to which institution he was taken in the hospital ambulance.

The crash occurred a quarter mile west of Morrisville on the Lincoln Highway at 11.50. Steedman, according to officers, was traveling toward Morrisville, and a truck operated by B. J. Levy, 175 Vernon avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., was being operated toward Philadelphia.

The vehicles crashed head-on,
officers state.

Levy and his helper were unhurt.
Levy is charged with involuntary manslaughter, and will be released under bail.

The truck was badly damaged
and the passenger car almost a complete wreck.

Forestin, of South Langhorne barracks, Penna. State Police.

New Hope Residents Visit Victory Gardens

NEW HOPE, July 27—An inspection was recently made of Victory Gardens, here, and among those visited were those of Dr. John Flood, Justice John Simon, Welding Slack, Michael Tiernan, I. S.
Worthington and Frank Cosner.
The object of the tour was to note
the arrangement of vegetables, varieties of vegetables, insect control, cultural practices and stage of maturity of the various vegetables.

According to Lester W. Seidel, local Victory garden chairman, all the gardens are suffering from drought and only a good rain in the immediate future will save the garden crops. A few of the gardens are showing signs of insect damage, particularly from the European corn borer and the Mexican bean beetle. Other insects seem to be under fair control, it was pointed out.

A heavy yield of string beans already has been canned and tomatoes are ripening now as well as lima beans and sweet corn.

William E. Wolfe, county Victory
Garden chairman, accompanied the garden tour and was very well pleased with the condition of the various gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. William Misera and children, Washington street have returned home following a week's stay at Wildwood N. J.

NO HITLER HERE!

Regardless of whether the stunt of President Roosevelt in "accepting" the New Deal nomination for a fourth term in a radio speech beamed to the Chicago convention from a naval base on the Pacific coast was merely another manifestation of the Roosevelt egotism—which reached an all-time high when he constructed a memorial to himself at Hyde Park—or whether it has more sinister implications, the campaign for the Presidency can get along very well without similar outcroppings as it progresses.

It is to be doubted whether the fourth term candidate will make this error again. The magnificent manner in which Herbert Brownell, Jr., Republican national chairman, slapped him down for it may have a salutary effect. The "defense plant inspection tour" technique was worn to a frazzle four years ago. The nation will frown upon speeches from the battlefield by a politician running for office with the support of communists, the crackpots and various anti-American elements.

Under the American system of government, Roosevelt had a perfect right to have the political party which he owns lock, stock and barrel because of Federal patronage unequalled in history judiciously placed—he had a perfect right to have this party name a thousand delegates, nearly all of them jobholders, to hold a convention to renominate their boss for another term. No term, no jobs.

But if it is to be the fourth term campaign strategy to deliver attacks on Thomas E. Dewey from naval bases, etc., while pretending to maintain the fiction that the "great man" does not have the time nor inclination to engage in partisan politics, such hypocrisy will be assailed with all the vigor which those who are in favor of the American form of government possess.

Tactics so basely un-American will make votes for Dewey—votes which will see in such "campaigning" the tactics of a Hitler, will be cast against any attempt to Hitlerize a campaign for the Presidency of the United States.

With the war in Europe ended before the election, the New Deal is on the defensive as it never has been since it took over control of the Federal Treasury in 1933. The Republican landslide of 1920 will be repeated in 1944.

The youth of the Republican candidate will be a priceless asset in his campaign when contrasted to the age, tiredness and reliance upon vast issues and shibboleths of the fourth term candidate. To the charge of immaturity, Republicans hurl the reply of decrepitude. Decrepitude not in age merely, but decrepitude in ideas and certainly decrepitude when it comes to adherence to the American form of government and the American way of life.

America never has had any does not have today an indispensable leader. America is not the kind of a country that heels Hitler—as the voters will demonstrate in November.

"I'd rather be with them—than waiting for them"

I'LL ADMIT there's a funny lump in my throat . . .

But here I am, loaded with my overseas pack, climbing up the side of the biggest boat I've ever seen—and glad of it.

Glad I said "good-bye" to civilian life months ago—and went into the WAC. Glad I went through all the training and on to active duty.

For, as a Wac, I'm really working for victory. Sharing the hard part of war. And the glory that will come.

I'd rather be with them—in the Army . . .

Than waiting back home—thinking up things to make the time go by—listening to the news—wondering when it'll all be over.

Yes, I'm in the Army and on my way—and I'm glad to the bottom of my heart!

FOURTH OF GERMANY'S LABOR BUSY ON LAND

Manufacture of Substitute
Fuels is Also Drain On
The Manpower

BLOCKADE EFFECTIVE

By Louis Azrael
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, July 27 — (INS) — Of all the factors that are determining the war's result, none is more important than this:

One-fourth of Germany's labor forces are working on the land, producing food.

"If we had as large a proportion of labor on the land as Germany we should hardly have any army at all," the British House of Lords was told recently.

"And if we had to make substitute fuels and commodities as she has to do we should not have any army or air force either."

This great drain on German manpower is only one of the results that are being accomplished, largely, by silent, relentless, dramatic economic warfare. It is a form of combat that has changed since the last war, in scope and tactics, fully as much as has air war.

It was simple in the last war. Viscount Cecil, who had charge of it then, said recently, "I doubt whether it differed very much from what it had been in the Napoleonic Wars." It consisted primarily of a blockade of German ports.

The blockade is still present and effective. But it was complicated for a time by Japan and Italy's hostility and by German access to French ports.

But blockade is only one of many economic weapons now. In America and England, busy bureaus are constantly seeking vulnerable spots in Germany's economy and devising ways to keep her from reinforcing them.

One way is by commercial competition. Wherever possible, we outbid Germany and purchase critical materials that she might get from neutral sources. Another is by diplomatic agreements such as the Turkish chrome agreement and the Spanish arrangement on wolfram. Another potent weapon is financial. The "Black Lists" of firms that might deal with Germany restrict the enemy's ability to buy or sell goods and to acquire foreign exchange.

More direct methods are also involved in economic warfare. Germany's problem of steel production provides a good example.

With resources obtained within its present borders, Germany can produce a great deal of steel. But more, ordinary steel is not enough for this war. To produce metals that can pierce armor, withstand modern projectiles and manufacture precision instruments, alloys such as nickel, chrome, cobalt, wolfram and tungsten are essential. So the economic warfare boards concentrated on these.

Chrome and wolfram supplies have been drastically reduced by financial and economic means. North Finland is a great source of nickel, and the water route to Germany had been made hazardous by mines and ships. Within enemy borders lies Knaben, a prime source of molybdenum. Two spectacular air attacks have played havoc with the mines.

Germany can still produce great quantities of steel but not nearly enough of the kind she needs. "Our economic warfare has taken the cutting edge off the German war machine," one expert said recently here.

Transport provides a no less vivid example. At best, transport would be difficult in the great domain that Hitler built in a few years. And when the great oil supplies of the Americas was withdrawn, the bulk of the burden fell on the railways. That brought increased demands for coal which in turn, must be carried by railways.

Much of Allied air activity has been part of this branch of economic warfare. The railways themselves have consistently been attacked. But so have coal mines, and so have synthetic oil plants.

The Germans sought a partial solution in coastal ship traffic. The Allied answer was in naval attacks on the ships and even more important, in heavy mine-laying, by ships and planes, along the coastal routes. All this had three objects. Least important among them was the physical destruction of trains, mines and ships. The primary object was to disrupt transportation in the Reich. And another important one was to drain manpower, since Germany must replace the destroyed objects as best she can.

This drain on manpower has been systematically increased in other ways. The blockade and other methods of economic warfare have forced Germany to rely largely on gas-produced motor transport and on synthetic rubber, oil, cellulose textiles and other goods. They have proved themselves adept at this. But ersatz industries are very wasteful of manpower. They are utilizing millions of Germans, and others under German control, who would otherwise be using or making munitions.

And in the opinion of Allied experts, this shortage of manpower is Germany's greatest weakness as the climactic stage of the war begins.

And in the opinion of Allied experts, this shortage of manpower is Germany's greatest weakness as the climactic stage of the war begins.

ly, we treat for shock, giving plasma when necessary, and get the patients ready for the hospital."

Commander English, who has served with this Marine outfit in Iceland, New Zealand, Guadalcanal, Tarawa, is lavish with his praise of plasma. In one day during the battle for "Devil's Garden," when more than a hundred casualties poured through the station, he estimated that plasma was given to eight out of every 10 cases.

"One patient had three doses, many had two," he said. "I don't know what we could have done without it. Nothing too strong can be said if it will urge one more American at home to donate blood."

"Another thing that is most gratifying, is the high morale of these troops. Although wounded, almost without exception they are in good spirits, and psychologically are in top shape."

There are cases of shock and exhaustion, without open wounds. These are kept at this station for three days and if not recovered sufficiently to return to duty, they are sent further to the rear for additional treatment.

Here at the aid station, too, are the Navy chaplains. When the influx was greatest, many a stretcher was carried by three corpsmen and either Lieutenant Edward Brubaker, 27, of New Rochelle, N. Y., or Lieutenant (jg.) Joseph P. F. Gallagher, 33, of Cardinal Hayes High School, the Bronx, N. Y.

Lieutenant Brubaker, formerly pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian Church at New Rochelle, is the Protestant chaplain. Lieutenant Gallagher, whose parish was in Scarsdale, N. Y., is the Catholic chaplain. Both chaplains knew Lieutenant Hughes in private life, Lieutenant Gallagher as a classmate, and Lieutenant Brubaker as a fellow townsman.

Ice Cream No. 1 On Summer Dessert Parade

There is a shortage of good commercial ice cream, so home-made ice cream is now a more popular summer dessert than ever.

Ice cream is often difficult to purchase, but millions of Americans are not going to be denied during hot weather. Thanks to those cool ice cream "refreshers" the automatic refrigerator, a smooth, delicious home-made ice cream can be made. And by using one of your household rennet tablets and light cream, the finished product is one of perfect smoothness—as the all too common "crystals" usually present in home-made ice cream are not to be found. Convince yourself by trying the Vanilla Ice Cream recipe below.

And by the way, if you happen to have an old-fashioned hand freezer in your attic or basement, here's a recipe for Chocolate Ice Cream that is equally appealing.

Vanilla Ice Cream
(Automatic Refrigerator)
1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
2 cups light cream
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/4 teaspoon vanilla

Dissolve rennet tablet by crushing in cold water. Add sugar and vanilla to cream and warm slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When comfortably warm (110 degrees F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablet and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, into refrigerator tray. Lay stand at room temperature until set—about 10 minutes. Place in freezing compartment and freeze until firm. Remove from tray to a bowl, break up with a fork and beat with rotary beater until free from hard lumps but still a thick mush. Finish freezing.

Chocolate Ice Cream
(Hand Freezer)
3 rennet tablets
1 tablespoon cold water
3 cups light cream
3 cups milk
3/4 cup cocoa
1 1/3 cups sugar
3/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 1/2 tablespoons vanilla

Dissolve rennet tablets by crushing in cold water. Combine cocoa, sugar, cream of tartar with 1 cup milk; boil 2 minutes. Add remaining milk, cream and vanilla to cocoa mixture. Warm slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When comfortably warm (110 degrees F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablets and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, into freezer can. Let stand at room temperature until firm and cool. Freeze in ice and salt mixture. 4 parts ice to 1 part ice cream salt.

delectable dessert.

All custards are easy to prepare, very healthful, easy to digest—and delicious but this one has an extra plus. What more could be asked for?

Baked Custard
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 to 1/3 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1/3 cup Grape-Nuts.

Combine eggs, sugar, and salt. Add milk gradually, mixing thoroughly; then add vanilla. Put about 1 tablespoon cereal in each custard cup; fill with custard mixture. Place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes, or until knife inserted comes out clean. This may be baked in greased baking dish. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Serve with sweetened crushed fruit, if desired. Makes 5 servings.

Note: If more cereal is desired, add 1/4 cup Grape-Nuts.

SAMSEL BAFFLES DIAMOND IX WITH HIS FAST BALL

Ten of The Diamond Batters Whiffed the Air at Bensalem

BADENHAUSEN WINS

Game Ends With the Score 7 to 1 in Favor of Badenhausen

BRISTOL SUBURBAN LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
BADENHAUSEN - ALUMINUM
(At Burlington)
DIAMOND and VOLTZ-TEXACO
(At Edgely)

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, July 27—Benny Samsel had his fast ball working in fine order on the Bensalem high school field as the Badenhausen team scored an easy 7-1 triumph over the Diamond nine in a Bristol Suburban League contest.

Samsel whiffed ten of the Diamond batters and allowed but four scattered hits as his mates drove Sagolla from the mound in the first and built up a comfortable lead. The only marker counted against the youthful Bensalem hurler was manufactured in the fifth when Sagolla beat out a hit to third. Woolvin walked, and Mandio singled, all with two gone.

Joe Sagolla started on the hill and did not finish the initial frame as he was battered hard. Trapp opened with a single and was sacrificed to second by Stark. Whyte doubled to score Trapp and Jake Paul singled. Bowman scored both runners with a home run to center field and Sagolla left the mound. Woolvin came in to finish the game, and all the Badenhausen batters had nine hits with Whyte and Bowman getting two out of three each to remain in the running for the ring crown.

The triumph enabled the Baddies to deadlock the Voltz-Texaco team for first place with three wins and two defeats.

HESS AND COFFEE BLANK ROHM & HAAS

The pitching of Ken Hess and Johnny Coffee was too much for the Rohm and Haas team last evening on the Maple Beach diamond as the Prison Officers blanked the chemical workers, 7-0.

The pair of Guards' hurlers allowed the Rohm and Haas team but four hits. Irvine Hetherington and Seddie Caro both had a double and single to represent the only hits in the Rohm and Haas column.

The winners had 12 hits with Jones leading the attack by getting three out of four.

The Rohm and Haas team will play Fleetwings on the Maple Beach diamond tomorrow evening. Manager Ken Munroe, of Rohm and Haas, who formerly pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates, will toe the slab for the chemical mixers.

Dispute Over Decision of Umpire Knapp Calling Man Out on Fly

SCORE OF GAME 11 TO 4

American Steel Players Scored 12 Hits Off Eilers

TRENTON, July 27—Although Alex Dewsnap had four hits in five trips to the plate, the Voltz-Texaco team bowed to the American Steel nine, 11-4, last evening on Wetzel field.

Manager George Dougherty, of the gasoleers, protested the game in the first inning when Umpire Knapp called Ritter out on a foul fly which hit the backstop and was caught by Catcher Plunkett, of the Steelers.

The Steelers made 12 hits off Eilers, newly-acquired Voltz-Texaco pitcher. Nine of these safe blows were divided among M. Ross, Budd, and Plunkett.

Many Students Are Entering The Factories

which was 81; and the number working on farms, which was 43.

In this period Bucks County has expanded in industrial employment not only in Lower Bucks, but also in Quakertown and Sellersville-Perkasie sections.

"A serious drawback to vocational industrial education in Bucks County is the fact that even the largest high schools in the county as now organized are too small to offer very much of a variety of courses. County and staff officials have already had several conferences on vocational education. The County Board of School Directors has recently taken a great interest in this problem.

"In 1941, 820 students were graduated from Bucks County High Schools of which the largest percentage, 29, went into trades and factory work; 23% went into store and office work; 10% stayed at home; 9% went to college; 8% took other employment; 4% went to commercial schools; 4% went into agriculture; 2% went into training to be nurses; 2% went to vocational trade schools for special training.

"In 1941, 16.6% of the graduates of Pennsylvania high schools went into trades and factory work as compared with 29.3% of the Bucks County graduates. 12.4% of the state graduates went to college, compared with 9% in Bucks.

"If Bucks County is maintained at anything near 1940 levels, Bucks County secondary education, according to County authorities, should adjust its program to meet the changed vocational interests of youth."

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME?

One-boy submarines? Just as preposterous as some of the talk you hear about tomorrow's home with "self-cleaning sidewalks," the home that runs itself, and so on. After all, the bigger the investment, the more slowly changes come. So the Post War Home will be very like the home of today. Improved? Yes! but not fantastic.

It's wise to begin planning that home NOW! Your hoarded War Bonds can build it when peace comes.

AMERICAN TANK FORCES SWEEPING FORWARD TO OCCUPY THE STRATEGIC TOWN OF CANISY AND THEN FAN OUT

German High Command Communique Admits That A Group of 20 Tanks with Tank-Borne Infantry Has "Succeeded in Pushing Through to Area of Canisy"—Good Gains Are Made.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS. Allied Expeditionary Force, July 27.—(INS)—American tank forces, spearheading assaults to crush the Nazi lines in western Normandy, swept forward more than two miles below liberated St. Gilles today to occupy the strategic rail town of Canisy and fan out to the south. Another tank assault column of armor and infantry which smashed upo Marigny, west of St. Gilles, continued to push forward.

(A German high command communique admitted that a group of 20 tanks with tank-borne infantry had "succeeded in pushing through to the area of Canisy." The twin offensives, according to a Reuter dispatch threatens the entire German front at the base of the Cherbourg peninsula. The push into Canisy and beyond was described as a further serious break-through of the German lines.)

Headquarters announced that the Americans had made "good gains" and confirmed the tank breakthrough of German lines on the two sectors southwest of St. Lo. The advance is continuing, a communique said.

No Basket Cases In United States or Britain

WASHINGTON, July 27.—That some U. S. soldiers have lost both arms and both legs was denied today by the Army Surgeon General's office, which said that there was not one case of multiple amputation in either American or British hospitals.

It branded the report to the contrary as "loose talk" and revealed that through March 31 only 58 soldiers had lost two limbs. Army officials added that all such cases, before they are discharged, are provided with artificial limbs and taught how to use them.

WATCHED BATTLE FROM UNIT AID STATION

Sgt. of Marines Tells How Casualties Are Handled On Saipan

By Sergeant Maynard Stitt of Glen Cover, N. Y., a Marine Corps Combat Correspondent, formerly of the Birmingham Bureau, United Press.

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands.—(Delayed)—Perhaps the most heart-breaking place to "watch" the six-day battle for "Devil's Garden"—a mile-wide pocket of almost impassable terrain in the heart of Saipan—was our unit aid station.

Manned by three doctors of the Navy Medical Corps, and a dozen enlisted hospital corpsmen, it was through this aid station that the casualties first trickled, then poured, then fell off to a trickle again as we took the high ground on the north edge of "Devil's Garden" after bitter fighting.

Treated by corpsmen with the front line units, and by doctors working just behind the lines, the casualties came to this aid station for further treatment or for evacuation to hospitals.

This aid station operates under the direction of Commander Glenn G. English, 46, of Los Angeles.

Located in a group of abandoned Jap shacks on the side of a slope overlooking the west coast of Saipan, the aid station operates as many as 70 beds, which are stretchers placed in rows in the shacks to protect patients from the sun and rain.

The cubical, brown, box-like little jeep ambulances, often carrying more than their maximum loads of two stretcher patients and two "sitters," wind down the tortuous trails from the front, and come bumping and lurching up to the aid station.

As the drivers turn and back in toward the shacks, the cry of "corpsman" brings half a dozen hurrying enlisted men and one or more of the doctors to tenderly lift the tagged Marines with their battle-dressed wounds from the ambulance for a quick, thorough inspection.

Even while these examinations are being made, the ambulance drivers obtain supplies needed at the front and scurry away. As they return to the front they meet others loaded with wounded.

At the aid station, the treatment for each wounded Marine is set out. One Marine will be carried into a huge mosquito-netted enclosure, a sealed box of plasma and distilled water ripped open, a vein bared, washed, and the life-restoring plasma starts to flow into the vein.

Another will be carried to one of the shacks to have his wounds redressed and to rest before being evacuated to a hospital. Another serious case demanding operation, is rushed to the rear hospital in another of the little brown ambulances. Still another is made comfortable until his wound is healed and he can return to the lines.

The Navy doctors working with Commander English includes Lieutenant Delmar V. Hughes, 33, of New Rochelle, N. Y.

"This is the toughest of the bunch," one doctor said of the Saipan campaign. "We do little operative work here," he explained. "Stopping hemorrhages sometimes becomes almost an operation. Main-

Where Are Those Flags?

(By "The Stroller")

When the present war first started, there was a liberal display of flags along the streets of Bristol. They were displayed from private residences and business places alike.

But not now. What is the matter? The flags have disappeared and some of those which are displayed show that they have been exposed to the elements.

A flag and staff does not cost a fortune, and in accordance with the present day value of money, the cost is not worth mentioning.

Let us have a more liberal display of flags along our streets and from our places of business.

(Doylestown Intelligencer, July 27)

The concept of rule by law instead of rule by man has done more to make government acceptable to the governed than perhaps any other idea in the evolution of mankind.

The fight to compel rulers to set their laws down in black and white went on for centuries. Some of the most important victories of freedom-seeking people resulted. For example, the Magna Carta, cornerstone of personal liberty, really involved little more than putting on paper, with the king's name signed to it, of a list of rights and duties already fairly well understood by the British people.

But success in this movement merely started a second struggle, for the right to make the laws. Rulers were not in the position of Moses, who could find his ten commandments already inscribed on stone on a mountaintop—someone had to decide what would be in the laws and what words would be used to express the thought.

The successful struggle of masses of citizens, through their legislatures, to get and to keep the right to make the laws and to say how much taxes should be raised to carry them out, forms another history of revolutions; in England and France, for example, and of course in our own United States.

Once the laws were written and protected against sudden or capricious alteration, there still remained the task of deciding exactly what they meant. Courts, which had come into being originally as a convenient way by which rulers could get someone else to listen to tales of woe, thereupon found a logical and definite function. With their law before them, the judiciary could apply the law to the appeals and protests and when necessary order amends to be made. Under the theory of free government, any citizen who believes that the law affects him unfairly, or that another citizen or public official is unreasonable in applying the law to him, can apply to a court where an impartial judge will hear both sides of the matter and decide on the real meaning of the law.

Government falls into three functions. One is to make the laws, another to decide what they mean, and a third to carry them out. The first is the legislative, the second is the judicial and the third is the executive.

As a generality it is true that the more completely these are separated, the better the private citizen is protected against tyranny and oppression.

The first resolution passed by the Constitutional Convention when it met in Philadelphia in 1787 called for the separation of these powers. The first step of every dictator always is to try to gain control of them in his own person.

Sometimes the division is inconvenient to the government. It was not intended to suit ambitious public officials, but somewhat the opposite, to protect the rights of the people. Attempts by any chief executive to seize either legislative or judicial control is a disturbing extension of what was intentionally made a limited authority. It is destructive of the vital pattern of free government.

New Hope Residents Visit Victory Gardens

NEW HOPE, July 27.—An inspection was recently made of Victory Gardens, here, and among those visited were those of Dr. John Flood, Justice John Simon, Welding Slack, Michael Tiernan, I. S. Worthington and Frank Cosner. The object of the tour was to note the arrangement of vegetables, varieties of vegetables, insect control, cultural practices and stage of maturity of the various vegetables.

According to Lester W. Seidel, local Victory garden chairman, all the gardens are suffering from drought and only a good rain in the immediate future will save the garden crops. A few of the gardens are showing signs of insect damage, particularly from the European corn borer and the Mexican bean beetle. Other insects seen to be under fair control, it was pointed out.

A heavy yield of string beans already has been canned and tomatoes are ripening now as well as lima beans and sweet corn.

William E. Wolfe, county Victory Garden chairman, accompanied the garden tour and was very well pleased with the condition of the various gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. William Missera and children, Washington street have returned home following a week's stay at Wildwood N. J.

NO HITLER HERE!

Regardless of whether the stunt of President Roosevelt in "accepting" the New Deal nomination for a fourth term in a radio speech beamed to the Chicago convention from a naval base on the Pacific coast was merely an another manifestation of the Roosevelt egotism—which reached an all-time high when he constructed a memorial to himself at Hyde Park—or whether it has more sinister implications, the campaign for the Presidency can get along very well without similar outcroppings as it progresses.

It is to be doubted whether the fourth term candidate will make this error again. The magnificent manner in which Herbert Brownell, Jr., Republican national chairman, slapped him down for it may have a salutary effect. The "defense plant inspection tour"
technique was worn to a frazzle four years ago. The nation will frown upon speeches from the battlefront by a politician running for office with the support of communists, the crackpots and various anti-American elements.

Under the American system of government, Roosevelt had a perfect right to have the political party which he owns lock, stock and barrel because of Federal patronage unequalled in history judiciously placed—he had a perfect right to have this party name
a thousand delegates, nearly all of them jobholders, to hold a convention to renominate their boss
for another term. No term, no jobs.

But if it is to be the fourth term campaign strategy to deliver attacks on Thomas E. Dewey from naval bases, etc., while pretending to maintain the fiction that the "great man" does not have the time nor inclination to engage in partisan politics, such hypocrisy will be assailed with all the vigor which those who are in favor of the American form of government possess.

Tactics so basely un-American will make votes for Dewey—votes which will see in such "campaigning" the tactics of a Hitler, will be cast against any attempt to Hitlerize a campaign for the Presidency of the United States.

With the war in Europe ended
before the election, the New Deal is on the defensive as it never has been since it took over control of the Federal Treasury in 1933. The Republican landslide of 1920 will be repeated in 1944.

The youth of the Republican candidate will be a priceless asset in his campaign when contrasted to the age, tiredness and reliance upon vast issues and shibboleths of the fourth term candidate. To the charge of immaturity, Republicans hurl the reply of decrep-itude. Decrepitude not in age merely, but decrepitude in ideas and certainly decrepitude when it comes to adherence to the American form of government and the American way of life.

America never has had and does not have today an indispensable leader. America is not the land of a country that heils a Hitler—as the voters will demonstrate in November.

*"I'd rather be with them—
than waiting for them"*

I'LL ADMIT there's a funny lump in my throat . . .
But here I am, loaded with my overseas pack, climbing up the side of the biggest boat I've ever seen—and glad of it.
Glad I said "good-by" to civilian life months ago—and went into the WAC. Glad I went through all the training and on to active duty.
For, as a Wac, I'm really working for victory. Sharing the hard part of war. And the glory that will come.
I'd rather be with them—in the Army . . .
Than waiting back home—thinking up things to make the time go by—listening to the news—wondering when it'll all be over.
Yes, I'm in the Army and on my way—and I'm glad to the bottom of my heart!

FOURTH OF GERMANY'S LABOR BUSY ON LAND

Manufacture of Substitute
Fuels is Also Drain On

BLOCKADE EFFECTIVE

By Louis Azrael
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, July 27.—(INS)—Of all the factors that are determining the war's result, none is more important than this:

One-fourth of Germany's labor forces are working on the land, producing food.

"If we had as large a proportion of labor on the land as Germany has, we should hardly have any army at all," the British House of Lords was told recently.

"And if we had to make substitute fuels and commodities as she has to do we should not have any army or air force either."

This great drain on German manpower is only one of the results that are being accomplished, largely, by silent, relentless, dramatic economic warfare. It is a form of combat that has changed since the last war, in scope and tactics, fully as much as has air war.

It was simple in the last war. Viscount Cecil, who had charge of it then, said recently, "I doubt whether it differed very much from what it had been in the Napoleonic Wars." It consisted primarily of a blockade of German ports.

The blockade is still present and effective. But it was complicated for a time by Japan and Italy's hostility and by German access to French ports.

But blockade is only one of many economic weapons now. In America and England, busy bureaus are constantly seeking vulnerable spots in Germany's economy and devising ways to keep her from reinforcing them.

One way is by commercial competition. Wherever possible, we outbid Germany and purchase critical materials that she might get from neutral sources. Another is by diplomatic agreements such as the Turkish chrome agreement and the Spanish arrangement on wolfram. Another potent weapon is financial. The "Black Lists" of firms that might deal with Germany restrict the enemy's ability to buy or sell goods and to acquire foreign exchange.

More direct methods are also involved in economic warfare. Germany's problem of steel production provides a good example.

With resources obtained within its present borders, Germany can produce a great deal of steel. But more, ordinary steel is not enough for this war. To produce metals that can pierce armor, withstand modern projectiles and manufacture precision instruments, alloys such as nickel, chrome, cobalt, wolfram and tungsten are essential. So the economic warfare boards concentrated on these.

Chrome and wolfram supplies have been drastically reduced by financial and economic means. North Finland is a great source of nickel, and the water route to Germany had been made hazardous by mines and ships. Within enemy borders lies Khabarovsk, a prime source of molybdenum. Two spectacular air attacks have played havoc with the mines.

Germany can still produce great quantities of steel but not nearly enough of the kind she needs. "Our economic warfare has taken the cutting edge off the German war machine," one expert said recently here.

Transport provides a no less vivid example. At best, transport would be difficult in the great domain that Hitler built in a few years. And when the great oil supplies of the Americas was withdrawn, the bulk of the burden fell on the railways. That brought increased demands for coal which in turn, must be carried by railways.

Much of Allied air activity has been part of this branch of economic warfare. The railways themselves have consistently been attacked. But so have coal mines, and so have synthetic oil plants.

The Germans sought a partial solution in coastal ship traffic. The Allied answer was in naval attacks on the ships and even more important, in heavy mine-laying, by ships and planes, along the coastal routes. All this had three objects. Least important among them was the physical destruction of trains, mines and ships. The primary object was to disrupt transportation in the Reich. And another important one was to drain man-power, since Germany must replace the destroyed objects as best she can.

This drain on man-power has been systematically increased in other ways. The blockade and other methods of economic warfare have forced Germany to rely largely on gas-produced motor transport and on synthetic rubber, oil, cellulose textiles and other goods. They have proved themselves adept at this. But ersatz industries are very wasteful of man-power. They are utilizing millions of Germans, and others under German control, who would otherwise be using or making munitions.

And in the opinion of Allied experts, this shortage of man-power is Germany's greatest weakness as the climactic stage of the war begins.

ly, we treat for shock, giving plasma when necessary, and get the patients ready for the hospital."

Commander English, who has served with this Marine outfit in Iceland, New Zealand, Guadalcanal, Tarawa, is lavish with his praise of plasma. In one day during the battle for "Devil's Garden," when more than a hundred casualties poured through the station, he estimated that plasma was given to eight out of every 10 cases.

"One patient had three doses, many had two," he said. "I don't know what we could have done without it. Nothing too strong can be said if it will urge one more American at home to donate blood."

"Another thing that is most gratifying, is the high morale of these troops. Although wounded, almost without exception they are in good spirits, and psychologically are in top shape."

There are cases of shock and exhaustion, without open wounds. These are kept at this station for three days and if not recovered sufficiently to return to duty, they are sent further to the rear for additional treatment.

Here at the aid station, too, are the Navy chaplains. When the influx was greatest, many a stretcher was carried by three corpsmen and either Lieutenant Edward Brubaker, 27, of New Rochelle, N. Y., or Lieutenant (j.g.) Joseph P. F. Gallagher, 33, of Cardinal Hayes High School, the Bronx, N. Y.

Lieutenant Brubaker, formerly pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian Church at New Rochelle, is the Protestant chaplain. Lieutenant Gallagher, whose parish was in Scarsdale, N. Y., is the Catholic chaplain. Both chaplains knew Lieutenant Hughes in private life, Lieutenant Gallagher as a classmate, and Lieutenant Brubaker as a fellow townsman.

Ice Cream No. 1 On Summer Dessert Parade

There is a shortage of good commercial ice cream, so home-made ice cream is now a more popular summer dessert than ever.

Ice cream is often difficult to purchase, but millions of Americans are not going to be denied during hot weather. Thanks to those cool ice cream "refreshers," the automatic refrigerator, a smooth, delicious home-made ice cream can be made. And by using one of your household rennet tablets and light cream, the finished product is one of perfect smoothness—as the all too common "crystals" usually present in home-made ice cream are not to be found. Convince yourself by trying the Vanilla Ice Cream recipe below.

And by the way, if you happen to have an old-fashioned hand freezer in your attic or basement, here's a recipe for Chocolate Ice Cream that is equally appealing.

Vanilla Ice Cream
(Automatic Refrigerator)
1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
2 cups light cream
½ cup sugar
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Dissolve rennet tablet by crushing in cold water. Add sugar and vanilla to cream and warm slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When comfortably warm (110 degrees F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablet and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, into refrigerator tray. Let stand at room temperature until set—about 10 minutes. Place in freezing compartment and freeze until firm. Remove from tray to a bowl, break up with a fork and beat with rotary beater until free from hard lumps but still a thick mush. Finish freezing.

Chocolate Ice Cream
(Hand Freezer)
3 rennet tablets
1 tablespoon cold water
3 cups light cream
3 cups milk
¾ cup cocoa
1 1/3 cups sugar
1 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 1/2 tablespoons vanilla

Dissolve rennet tablets by crushing in cold water. Combine cocoa, sugar, cream of tartar with 1 cup milk; boil 2 minutes. Add remaining milk, cream and vanilla to cocoa mixture. Warm slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When comfortably warm (110 degrees F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablets and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, into freezer can. Let stand at room temperature until firm and cool. Freeze in ice and salt mixture, 4 parts ice to 1 part ice cream salt.

Custard That Is "Different"

Here is a baked custard that is decidedly "different." Serve it to your friends and you'll be asked for the recipe—sure proof of a delectable dessert.

All custards are easy to prepare, very healthful, easy to digest—and delicious but this one has an extra plus. What more could be asked for?

Baked Custard
2 eggs, slightly beaten
¼ to 1/3 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1/3 cup Grape-Nuts.

Combine eggs, sugar, and salt. Add milk gradually, mixing thoroughly; then add vanilla. Put about 1 tablespoon cereal in each custard cup; fill with custard mixture. Place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes, or until knife inserted comes out clean. This may be baked in greased baking dish. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Serve with sweetened crushed fruit, if desired. Makes 5 servings.

Note: If more cereal is desired,

SAMSEL BAFFLES DIAMOND IX WITH HIS FAST BALL

BADENHAUSEN WINS Game Ends With the Score 7 to 1 in Favor of Badenhause

(At Edgely)

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, July 27—"Benny" Samsel had his fast ball working in fine order on the Bensalem high school field as the Badenhause team scored an easy 7-1 triumph over the Diamond nine in a Bristol Suburban League contest.

Samsel whiffed ten of the Diamond batters and allowed but four scattered hits as his mates drove Sagolia from the mound in the first and built up a comfortable lead. The only marker counted against the youthful Bensalem hurler was manufactured in the fifth when Sagolia beat out a hit to third, Woolvin walked, and Mandio singled, all with two gone.

Joe Sagolia started on the hill and did not finish the initial frame as he was battered hard. Trapp opened with a single and was sacrificed to second by Stark. Whyte doubled to score Trapp and Jake Prall singled. Bowman scored both runners with a home run to center field and Sagolia left the mound. Woolvin came in to finish the game.

In all, the Badenhause batters had nine hits with Whyte and Bowman getting two out of three each to remain in the running for the ring crown.

The triumph enabled the Baddies to deadlock the Voltz-Texaco team for first place with three wins and two defeats.

HESS AND COFFEE BLANK ROHM & HAAS

The pitching of Ken Hess and Johnny Coffee was too much for the Rohm and Haas team last evening on the Maple Beach diamond as the Prison Officers blanked the chemical workers, 7-0.

The pair of Guards' hurlers allowed the Rohm and Haas team but four hits, Irvine Hetherington and Seddie Caro both had a double and single to represent the only hits in the Rohm and Haas column.

The winners had 12 hits with Jones leading the attack by getting three out of four.

The Rohm and Haas team will play Pletwings on the Maple Beach diamond tomorrow evening. Manager Ken Munroe, of Rohm and Haas, who formerly pitched for the Pittsburgh Pirates, will toe the slab for the chemical mixers.

VOLTZ MANAGER PROTESTS GAME IN FIRST FRAME

Dispute Over Decision of Umpire Knapp Calling Man Out on Fly

SCORE OF GAME 11 TO 4

American Steel Players Scored 12 Hits Off Eilers

TRENTON, July 27—Although Alex Dewsnap had four hits in five trips to the plate, the Voltz-Texaco team bowed to the American Steel team, 11-4, last evening on Wetzel field.

Manager George Dougherty, of the gasoliers, protested the game in the first inning when Umpire Knapp called Ritter out on a foul fly which hit the backstop and was caught by Catcher Plunkett, of the Steelers.

The Steelers made 12 hits off Eilers, newly-acquired Voltz-Texaco pitcher. Nine of these safe blows were divided among M. Rossi, Budd, and Plunkett.

The losers played loose ball afeld, committing four errors.

Yardley Lions Busy Improving Building

Arthur Blaker, and Roy Hackett.

The scraping and first coat is rapidly getting done, and with practically all Lions turning out, the project will soon be completed. The paint is being furnished by the directors of the Yardley Community Centre and the ladders and equipment are donated by various members of the club and committee. In a short time the Lions' meeting house will be an attractive white, with green shutters, and the rest of the community will share in the improvement.

Many Students Are Entering The Factories

which was 81; and the number working on farms, which was 43. In this period Bucks County has expanded in industrial employment not only in Lower Bucks, but also in Quakertown and Sellersville-Perkasie sections.

"A serious drawback to vocational industrial education in Bucks County is the fact that even the largest high schools in the county as now organized are too small to offer very much of a variety of courses. County and staff officials have already had several conferences on vocational education. The County Board of School Directors has recently taken a great interest in this problem.

"In 1941, 829 students were graduated from Bucks County High Schools of which the largest percentage, 29, went into trades and factory work; 23% went into store and office work; 16% stayed at home; 9% went to college; 8% took other employment; 4% went to commercial schools; 4% went into agriculture; 2% went into training to be nurses; 2% went to vocational trade schools for special training.

"In 1941, 16.6% of the graduates of Pennsylvania high schools went into trades and factory work as compared with 29.3% of the Bucks County graduates. 12.4% of the state graduates went to college, compared with 9% in Bucks.

"If Bucks County is maintained at anything near 1940 levels, Bucks County secondary education, according to County authorities, should adjust its program to meet the changed vocational interests of youth."

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME?

One-boy submarines? Just as preposterous as some of the talk you hear about tomorrow's home with "self-cleaning sidewalks," the home that runs itself, and so on. After all, the bigger the investment, the more slowly changes come. So the Post War Home will be very like the home of today. Improved? Yes! but not fantastic.

It's wise to begin planning that home NOW! Your hoarded War Bonds can build it when peace comes.
